“ Mr Morgan was a gifted educator. He taught you how to think and solve problems. Those skills have blessed me in all facets of life. I know he was a blessing to all his faculty peers and the thousands of students that he dedicated his life to.

Thank you for everything.

“ I worked with Nick at Cathedral High School in Indianapolis when I was starting my career there. He was certainly a role model for me. He was a gentleman and a scholar and deeply concerned with his students being successful in their education. He always had time to impart some words of wisdom if you needed some advice and he had a unique way of putting even the most difficult of situations in perspective! He also modeled friendship for me in how he got along with so many people , including Mr. Glidden, Paul Brown and Lisa Ford. I have only the fondest memories of the time I spent working with him. He was truly a 'gem' and I am sure his friends and family will miss him immensely.
