*This is truly a sad time for me Dad. I still can't believe that I won't be able to talk to you on the phone, never will see you again nor order for you the essential oils you loved. I promise you that I will always keep the the wise words and advice you gave me over the years. Some of the life lessons, home economics you taught still remain in me to this day. You will see how your infectious smiles and counsel permeates and multiply when you were with us & will continue for generations. You were a pillar of light & the glue that kept this family together. I know that you are sitting at HIS side looking at us & praying for us. I'm grateful & honored that I got to call you dad. Rest In Peace dad. Rest assured that you've lived & lead a wonderful & blessed life. Till we meet again,
Adieu.

“ Como sa va? The prayer and condolences of the Kimble family are with the Hurley/Charles family at this time. Our 1st contact he says; "Hello I am, Sir Lawrance Oliver Bellagosi Boris Koloff Hurley", in his gentlemanly way and waited for my shock and laughter to subside, says, "you can call me Larry, lol. I thank God for having Larry pass along my life's timeliness. Especially, on those very cold Brooklyn mornings, while I waited for the B44 bus after having gotten off the LIRR (Long Island Railroad). As he drove down New York Avenue on his way to our mutual place of employment, IBM Brooklyn he, the Good Samaritan, would stop and offer me much appreciated a ride. 'Lamb Chop' keep looking up to Jesus for He is The Comforter. Love y'all! Never had it so good! ;Je m'ais se bon!

“ Louise Hurley- I met my husband, Larry Hurley, at IBM in Brooklyn, New York, where I was employed. After working together for several years we fell in love and got married in 1981. The company then transferred us to Poughkeepsie in Hudson Valley.

We had wonderful marriage and we both loved to travel. We went to Europe, Greece, China, and 40 of the states in the US.

We have never been apart, we break bread together and pray together. Life could not have been any better.

He brought joy to my life. He was a friend and a husband and took that role very seriously. He loved his kids and grand kids. He was a man of God and liked reading the bible. He will never be forgotten because I will cherish his memory always.

God now calls him home and I know the angels will be there to welcome him to heaven.

Love Booby

“ We did not grow up together mainly because in true Caribbean fashion, I was raised by an aunt, uncle and grandmother. That did not stop me from loving you as we both got to know each other over the years. We developed a closeness that I will always treasure. I will miss your sense of humor and most of all that smile.
