My thompson was a very special man to alot of people. I had the pleasure of knowing him for only a short time. But it was always a joke if he was around. Great man loved by many

“ I lost a childhood best friend today. I lost the Best Man at my wedding today. To Cindi and the entire family, please accept my heartfelt condolences and sympathy. Paul, Mitch and I were inseparable in our high school days. What one did, the other two followed! Like Mitch said, we were the "Three Sticks of Dynamite"! Unfortunately as we grow older, we become separable and begin our own lives. I am saddened beyond words to know that I will never be able to re-connect with Paul and to attempt to mend the gap that time brought upon us. I am though, happy to see that my friend lived a rich and meaningful life and that he was able to bring life, joy, love and happiness to his entire family and those around him. I will love and miss him forever! Ben Stalvey

“ I learned of Paul's passing this morning and was devastated by the news. Paul and I had lost contact over the years, but he will always be one of my best childhood friends and "partners in crime". I had always hoped that he and I would find a way to reconnect. Our high school band director, Phil Wharton, always referred to Ben Stalvey, Paul, and myself as "three sticks of dynamite". Those were good times and I'll always cherish them. How ironic that Paul and his family moved from Northern California to Lakeland, and I find myself living where the Thompsons moved from. God bless his family and my deepest condolences.

“Workers' Compensation is a tight knit community inside the insurance industry. It's where you meet people at a conference several states from home and find out that you live within three miles of each other. Over 20 years ago I met Terry only to find out that he went to high school with my wife, and that I drove past his home on a weekly basis. It really is a small world.

Terry was a happy, gregarious, humble man who loved to laugh and help others. Whenever we talked, no matter the time since our last conversation, I always walked away smiling and in a better mood than before we spoke. Our chats ranged from shared accounts and travel, but mostly family. He was a proud son, father, grandfather and husband.

For many years Terry battled illness and disease. I was in awe of how he did so with such a positive attitude. He personified the saying that "you may have been given a cactus, but you don't have to sit on it."

In over thirty years in this industry I have been fortunate to have made many business acquaintances and a few lifetime friends. I will miss my friend Terry.

“ I might not have known him long, but everytime we got together with our friends, he always made sure everyone was having a good time. Always made sure we were laughing! I'll never forget the time he stood up for me at gasparilla when the girls showed up out of nowhere and tried to push us off the fence line. Well, Terry wasn't having any of that. He pushed his weight up against crowd until they left!!! My heart is broken for all of your family! We will miss you my friend!! ❤️
